

To secure photography services with JJ Media, clients must complete the booking process and submit full payment before the scheduled photoshoot, as sessions are not considered booked or confirmed until payment is received by the agreed-upon deadline; payment is expected to be completed before the photoshoot via Venmo or cash/check, and sessions will not proceed without payment. Session date, time, and number of locations must be agreed upon in advance, with clients selecting locations within their package limits; outfit changes are available upon request and are subject to a $50 charge per outfit change, and travel outside the included service area may be subject to additional travel charges based on distance and time, with any applicable fees discussed and approved before the session. Cancellations and rescheduling must follow the timeframe outlined at booking and are subject to availability, with late cancellations or late arrivals potentially resulting in forfeited payment or reduced shooting time without refund. Edited images will be delivered via an online gallery within the communicated turnaround time, and while clients retain ownership of their delivered images, they grant JJ Media the right to use delivered content for marketing, portfolio, and promotional purposes. Clients are responsible for obtaining any required location permissions, and JJ Media is not responsible for circumstances beyond its control, including weather, lighting, or location restrictions. JJ Media reserves the right to refund the client's booking fee and decline services if the subject matter is deemed inappropriate or illegal, and additional terms, if needed, are to be negotiated between the client and JJ Media. By booking services, the client acknowledges and agrees to all terms outlined above.

Jack Jungmann

JJ Media, Owner